Program Description:

2. The young person must accept responsibility for the offence even though this cannot be used later as evidence in any civil or criminal court proceeding, and he or she must fully and freely consent to participate in alternative measures. In addition, the young person must be advised of his or her right to be represented by a lawyer and must have been given reasonable opportunity to consult with a lawyer before agreeing to participate.

3. A crown attorney decides if there is sufficient evidence to proceed with the prosecution of an offence, and whether the young person is eligible, depending on the type and nature of the incident and the young person's offence record.

1. The John Howard Society perceives itself as "citizens active in the prevention of crime".

   c. Empower the offender to take responsibility for his own life;

To provide peacemaking and conflict resolution in the community through mediation.

Program Description:

1. Mediation provides an alternative within the criminal justice system whereby people who are involved in a conflict meet together with a neutral and impartial third party who helps them to resolve their conflict in a way that is acceptable to both parties.

2. Mediation Services provides services primarily in the form of pre-trial criminal court diversion, most often in cases where criminal charges have been laid but a plea has not been entered.

3. The criteria for Pre-Trial Mediation include:
    a. An identifiable victim;
    b. The accused does not have a substantial record of similar offences;
    c. An ongoing relationship between victim and offender (this is an important consideration for more serious offences, and for property offences such as breaking & entering, theft, etc.);
    d. Charges considered appropriate for mediation include common assault, assault causing bodily harm, uttering threats, possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace, mischief, and to a lesser extent at present, aggravated assault, theft, breaking and entering, and a variety of other offences.

4. Mediation Services receives cases through staff screening of police reports (subject to approval of the Crown), Crown Attorney referrals (sometimes at the request of the Defense Attorney), and victims directly submitting a case for approval.

5. If the complainant agrees to mediation, the defendant is contacted and a meeting is arranged with a trained volunteer mediator.

6. If the mediation is successful, an agreement is drawn up specifying the terms or conditions. These may include financial restitution, formal apologies, agreements to seek counselling, community work, or whatever the two parties agree upon.

7. If the mediation process is not successful, the Crown is informed as soon as possible, along with a general indication of why mediation did not proceed.

8. Mediation Services seeks to contribute to the peace of the community by producing agreements that victims and offenders can live with, thus preventing the occurrence of further incidents which will result in further court action.

SHELTERS, COMMITTEES and CRISIS LINES for ABUSED WOMEN

There are numerous agencies within the Province of Manitoba where women, with their children, may take refuge if they feel threatened by an abusive relationship or where they can get referrals to safe houses. In addition, these agencies seek to provide counselling, education, support groups and referral service within their respective communities.

There are a number of existing programs which are mandated only to provide counselling and public education.

The objectives of the following programs concentrate on the prevention of continued abuse and breaking the cycle of violence.

Please contact the organization in your particular jurisdiction for further and more precise information.
